

Thank you very much. So firstly, we just want to say thank you. To receive this award, especially from an organisation that puts disabled people and real-world impact at its forefront.

Accessible Housing Scotland was created to solve a problem that shouldn't really exist in the first place.

Too many people are living in homes that simply don't meet their needs, and the process of finding something suitable can often be overwhelming, frustrating, and isolating.

What we do is quite simple in principle. We work closely with each individual to understand their needs and find them a home that actually works for them, not just on paper, but in real life.

For us, it's always been about more than just property. It's about independence, dignity, and making sure that people have the same choices and opportunities as everyone else.

We've had the privilege of working with some amazing families and clients, and this award really belongs to them as much as it does to us. Their trust, their resilience, and their stories are what drives everything that we do.

We're still a small organisation, but we care deeply about what we do, and we're committed to continuing to grow our impact in a meaningful way.

So thank you again for this recognition. It really does mean a lot. And thank you to everyone who supported us along the way. We really appreciate it.